

Candle Flame Dancers

Lyrics/music by Leonid Safro.

(Acoustic version to be recorded Q1 2014)

Intro:

I whisper your name,
And I whisper your name,
As the Autumn leaves are falling.

You smiled once,
Then you flew away,
And I'm left waiting for you.

Chorus:

What are our chances?
We're all candle flame dancers.
As we spin around its fragile twists and turns.

What are our chances?
We're all candle flame dancers,
From the first spark to our final curtain
call.

Verse 1:

Looking out the window;
Counting falling leaves;
Rushing in the Winter;
Putting world to sleep.

With first snow you'll be here,
Though just for a bit.
I will kiss you, I'll caress you,
And at night we will not sleep.

I will kiss you, I'll caress you,
And at night we will not sleep.

When, suddenly, your stay is over,
Suddenly, you have to go,
I will ask: "Can you stay longer?"
I will pray you soon return.

Chorus.

Verse 2:

World is like a barren desert.
Thoughts are phantoms of a troubled mind.
As I try to send to you my message.
Phone is not enough, nor is Skype.

I'll try to send you my emotion.
Hope it travels through the countless miles.
It will pass my love and my devotion,
Tell you how I miss your hazel eyes.

It will pass my love and my devotion,
Tell you how I miss your hazel eyes.

I close my eyes, and I imagine,
Maybe it's a lie of a troubled mind,
For a moment our minds made contact.
You received my message and replied.

Chorus.

Ending. (same as intro).
I'm here waiting for you.
